

Arusha Coffee Lodge Arusha

A relatively small and luxury coffee plantation based lodge in Arusha. Ideally located for a quick overnight and probably the best choice in the area, the Arusha Coffee Lodge is in a small and well established coffee plantation set to the west of Arusha, just down from Arusha Airport.

Generally seen as the basing point for the northern safari itineraries, Arusha is usually only seen as an overnight stop and is often used as such. It does, however, have quite a lot more to offer and this is especially where a lodge such as the Arusha Coffee Lodge can come into its own.

As the lodge has all of the facilities of a normal safari lodge, it is easy enough to spend a few nights here as part of an itinerary that explores the surrounding areas such as the nearby Arusha National Park or the village project such as Tengeru.

The lodge itself has long prided itself on both its food and the general ambience which is held as being amongst the best in Arusha. Each of the large and spacious 18 rooms is set amongst the coffee vines and has a private balcony and view.

With ensuite bathrooms and fires in each, the rooms can be either warming in the cooler months or cooler in the heat of the summer.

- 18 luxury rooms with balcony.
- Stunning location.
- Very good food.
- Pool.

Our View

Another of the exceptional Elewana properties, the Arusha Coffee Lodge is probably the pick of the lodges that surround Arusha. It can feel a little like it is just a passing through point at times as most faces only remain for a night and are then gone, but staying for a couple of nights can be a very enjoyable experience. The main benefits for the lodge are that it has a great outside area with tables set out amongst the green grass. The pool, while not huge, is perfect for the occasional dip and the food is also very good (as is the bar!). As said before, this is one of our first choices for people looking for a smart and well laid out lodge for either the night or longer.
