

The Tides Lodge Mainland Indian Ocean

The Tides Lodge is a small and intimate hotel located to the north of Dar es Salaam on the Tanzania mainland and is a perfect place to while away a few days or a week or two.

Set on a sandy palm fringed, picture postcard bay, on the remote and unspoilt beach while runs south from Pangani the Tides consists of 9 rooms all with sea views and access to the beautiful beach. Small and intimate, the lodge offers a high level of personal service in an unobtrusive and unpretentious manner. Guests can enjoy excellent cuisine where the house chef specializes in seafood, delivered daily by the local fishermen.

The cottages, which are set amid the palms lining the beach, are spacious, bright and breezy and have large well appointed bathrooms. All have their own sunbathing area under the shade of the palm trees for guests' privacy with the azure blue waters of the Indian Ocean a perfect place to float and consider the world!

Facilities include a beach front bar, where lunch, cocktails and a full range of drinks are served; a fine dining restaurant over looking the ocean; recently built swimming pool and shop with internet facility.

Activities are also one of the key features to the hotel and there are a wide range to choose from including snorkelling and SCUBA diving on nearby Maziwe Island Marine Park, game fishing, cultural tours of Pangani, beach walks and village tours, kayaking, and other water sports.

- Deserted beach.
- Superb value
- Diving and snorkelling available.

Our View.

Great beach, great lodge....overall a very nice off the beaten track choice! What Tides has over other destinations on the mainland coast is a whole range of activities, including good diving, making it a very good and affordable destination for people wanting to stay away from Zanzibar.

Each of the rooms is certainly bright and airy and the lodge management and staff all have the right idea about service...efficient and unobtrusive! The only slight hitch is access as the morning flight is expensive (afternoon is good value)....but the rewards are certainly worth it!
